PROGRAM

Amy Blaschka is a professional image consultant, personal stylist, and owner of House of Colour North Pleasanton, where she helps people harness the transformative power of color and personal style to show up with clarity, confidence, and authenticity.

Before launching her House of Colour franchise in 2023, Amy spent more than 30 years branding and positioning products, places, and people. Her career includes senior roles in advertising, marketing, and branding; executive leadership and advisory work in the travel and tourism industry; and founding a strategic writing practice as a thought-leadership ghostwriter for company founders worldwide. She was also a Forbes contributor, writing on leadership and career development.

Today, Amy brings her deep understanding of identity, perception, and influence into her work—equipping clients with practical tools and lasting insight so they can be seen, heard, and remembered for who they truly are.

When she's not helping others shine, Amy enjoys traveling with family and friends and working on her not-yet-finished psychological thriller.
